

Curriculum Vitae Marco Andreassi

Dr Marco Andreassi studied Pharmacy with an emphasis on "Human epidermis reconstructed in vitro as a model for the study of cosmetic products".

Specialist in Cosmetic Science and Technologies, with a thesis on "The alpha-hydroxy acids in cosmetology".

PhD in Cosmetic Science and Technology with a thesis on "Natural raw materials and their use in cosmetics".

In 1999, he was appointed research fellow at the University of Siena in the field of Applied Pharmaceutical Chemistry.

From 2004 is Researcher in the field of Applied Pharmaceutical Chemistry at the University of Siena.

Teacher at the Post-graduate School and Master in Cosmetic Science and Technology and Dermocosmetology.

Current teaching: Technology, Socio-Economics, Pharmaceutical Law.

Process. Member of Italian CRS (Controlled Release Society) and A.D.R.I.T.E.L.F..

Research lines: Natural products, Antioxidant and radical scavengers; In-vitro and in vivo-evaluation of cosmetic and pharmaceutical products; Spa treatment and thermal agents, Applied Pharmaceutical Chemistry.